LEN allocates European Championships

Berlin host of the 2014 European Championships

Luxembourg (pps) The German Swimming Federation, DSV, and the City of Berlin will host the 32nd European Championships in Swimming, Diving, Synchronized Swimming and Open Water Swimming as the Bureau of the European Swimming Federation (LEN) announced this week-end after a meeting at their headquarters in Luxembourg.

Berlin already hosted the 2002 European Swimming Championships. The German Swimming Federation and the City of Rostock will also host the next two independent editions (in 2013 and 2015) of the European Diving Championships.

The European Junior Championships in Swimming, Diving, and Synchronized Swimming will be carried out in Poznan (POL) in 2013. The host of the 2012 European Junior Championships in Diving is Graz (AUT). The 14th European Masters Championships (Swimming, Diving, Synchro, and Open Water Swimming) in 2013 were allocated to the Royal Dutch Swimming Federation, KNZB, and the City of Eindhoven.

The Men's Water Polo Euro League Final Four will take place in Rome (ITA) on June 3rd and 4th.

The host of the 2012 European Swimming Championships will be announced during the LEN Congress on May 14th, 2011 in Reykjavik (ISL).
